Introduction

The 28th Annual New Mexico Children’s Law Institute (CLI) was held virtually from Wednesday, January 13th through Friday, January 15th, 2021. For twenty-eight years, the Children’s Law Institute has focused on new and emerging trends and best practices in ever changing child welfare and juvenile justice environments. Through the CLI, the child welfare and juvenile justice communities have successfully advocated for blending systems and preserving connections. Together the CLI community has learned the importance of a trauma-informed approach, acquired skills for enhancing practice, and deepened its service to children and youth by focusing on empathy and compassion.

This year’s conference included 44 unique workshops that provided attendees an opportunity to reflect on how to embrace change and revolutionize their practice. The conference encouraged all providers to rise to the challenge and revolutionize their practice. The conference planning committee made the decision to hold the conference virtually and utilize the web-based version of the CrowdCompass event app to assist attendees in navigating the conference program and used Zoom as the online platform to host conference sessions. Overall attendees were satisfied with the ease of access to the virtual event.

The 2021 CLI offered four featured speaker presentations by Dr. Kaitlan Baston, Mary Katherine Nagel, Judge Lynn Tepper, and Kristin Henning, that covered the neurobiology of substance use in pregnant and parenting women, tribal advocacy and the Indian Child Welfare Act, how to see individuals in a courtroom through a trauma lens, and race, adolescence and trauma in family court. Other workshop topics included being a Black foster youth in America, engaging and empowering youth involved in child welfare proceedings, collaborating effectively with tribes, and merging science with legal strategy when advocating for children and families. Other workshops promoted diversity and inclusion through topics related to black invisibility, cultural humility, community engagement, and working with LGBTQ+ youth. Our skill building workshops included topics related to wellness and resiliency, mindfulness, trauma informed practices, and building awareness around kinship care. Three workshops, led by youth, spoke to the experience of youth and recommendations regarding youth services. Opening keynote speaker, Dr. Christina Bethell, discussed her research linking child well-being to safe, stable, nurturing relationships. The closing keynote speaker, Brittany Packnett Cunningham, inspired participants during a fireside-style chat with Cynthia Chavers, Field Deputy Director with CYFD Protective Services Division, and shared lessons of confidence through change learned from her work as an activist, educator, and leader. Conference attendees had the opportunity for rest and rejuvenation in mindfulness sessions held during the morning breaks. During the lunch break participants were invited to connect with other attendees and discuss common experiences during facilitated Community Conversations. During the afternoon breaks, participants had the opportunity to move and dance during facilitated “Zoomba” sessions. For a full list of session topics, descriptions and speakers visit the “Agenda” tab at the conference website, link provided on page 13.

The Children’s Law Institute is a multi-agency and organization collaboration, led by the Court Improvement Project of the NM Supreme Court. The annual conference was planned and coordinated by the New Mexico Administrative Office of the Courts, the Center of Innovation for Behavioral Health and Wellbeing at New Mexico State University and the UNM Institute of Public Law, Corinne Wolfe Center for Child and Family Justice. Major contributors to the planning process include the New Mexico Children, Youth, and Families Department’s Divisions of Juvenile Justice, Protective Services, and Behavioral Health; The Substitute Care Advisory Council; the NM Family Advocacy Program and representatives of the court including contract attorneys, Court Appointed Special Advocates (CASA), and State and Tribal Judges. Major financial sponsorship of the 2021 CLI was from the NM Supreme Court, The Children’s Justice Act Advisory Group and the New Mexico State Bar, Children’s Law Section. For a complete list of financial sponsors for this year’s conference, see page 13.

Overall Conference Evaluation Report

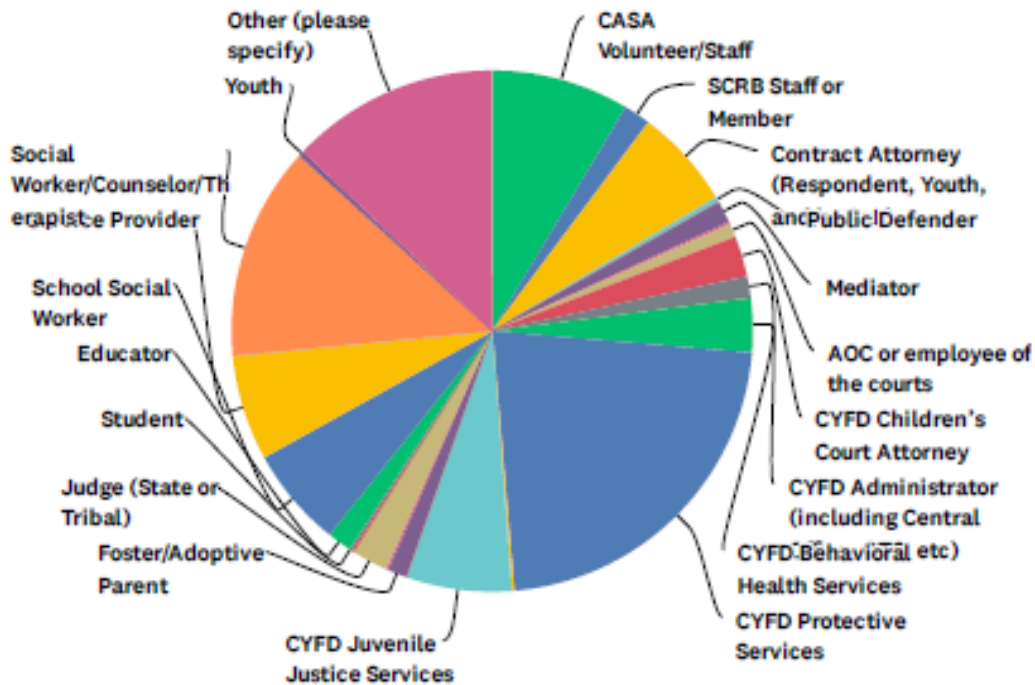

All attendees of the 2021 CLI Conference were sent an email with the online satisfaction survey on January 19, 2021. The survey was available until January 27, 2021. Of the 1,135 participants at the conference, 610 responded to the survey. Participants were asked to identify what sessions they attended and answer a set of questions about each session each on a 5-point scale where 1 is low and 5 is high. Narrative feedback about each session was also collected. The responses about the general conference and overall feedback are summarized below. Responses about Keynote and Workshop sessions is provided to the individual presenters of those sessions and CLI planning committee members and may be provided to others upon special request.

Overall Conference Narrative Feedback Summary

Overall Organization of the Event

Overall, most respondents felt very positively about the organization and implementation of the conference. Many participants noted that the conference was highly informative, inspiring, and well planned. While participants missed the face to face interactions, they believed the virtual conference was a suitable alternative. The opening and closing sessions were greatly appreciated by many surveyed.

Some respondents suggested clearer written instructions be provided about registration, accessing sessions and handouts, and indicating a clear email or point of contact for people who had CEU questions, technical issues, or other inquiries. Others felt that the schedule was too difficult to maintain virtually as it is a long time to sit in front of a computer. Some suggested shortening the length of sessions, reducing the length of the conference day, starting later in the day, or having more opportunities for breaks. The majority of respondents agreed that the digital conference interface was easy to navigate and were interested in attending additional virtual trainings or conferences in the future.

Speaker and Workshop Content

The majority of survey respondents had positive feedback about the quality, speaker and topic variety, and structuring of the workshop sessions. Many responses indicated that the presentations they attended were educational, relevant, and informative.

Some survey responses expressed a desire for more intermediate or advanced topic material choices as many sessions were somewhat introductory. Some respondents expressed a desire for more New Mexico centered information as many presenters were speaking from experience in urban, densely populated areas with different demographics. A few respondents also expressed concern about the number of breakout rooms used as participation was often low and took time away from meaningful discussion in the main presentation room. A few participants mentioned the need for more cross-cultural, diverse perspectives among presenters.

Technology

Participants had varying opinions about navigating the digital interface and ease of use of the Crowd Compass and Zoom apps. Many respondents expressed satisfaction with the platforms used, found them easy to navigate, or commented about the great support they received from IT support. Others appreciated that the digital conference eliminated travel time and expenses and felt that the digital environment allowed them to be more focused on the presentations as there were no audience or environmental distractions.

Other participants expressed that they had many technical difficulties and found it challenging to navigate the web applications required for the conference. Some had difficulty signing up for sessions, logging in to Crowd Compass with the verification code, logging in to zoom rooms, or locating and downloading PowerPoint slides and handouts. Some respondents noted that while they understood the necessity of a digital conference this year, they missed the in-person interaction and networking opportunities existing in previous years.
